A PROCLAMATION.

By Andrew Johnson, President of the United States:

WHEREAS, The Constitution of the United States provides for the trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, by a jury; and

WHEREAS, Trial by jury is guaranteed to the accused in all criminal prosecutions by the Constitution of the United States, and is required to take its place in the authority conferred; and

WHEREAS, Section 9 of the act of Congress approved February 5, 1867, entitled "An act to prescribe the jurisdiction of the District Courts of the United States in certain cases," and the laws of the United States which may be made in pursuance thereof, provide that in all such cases the right of trial by jury shall be preserved; and

WHEREAS, Section 3 of the act of Congress approved March 2

IMPEACHMENT.

We noticed in a previous article the objections made by John Quincy Adams and his counsel upon the trial of an impeachment in the year 1828, that under our Constitution, no act was impeachable except treason and bribery, unless the act was made a crime, or misdemeanor by some statute of the United States. In the American Law Register, for March, 1861, the ex-President, Judge Wayne, and Judge Grier, are said to have been written by Professor Theodore W. Dwight, of Columbia College, which review argues at the same conclusion, thus stated: "The result is, that neither the House of Representatives in the Constitution, impeachments are confined to the military or civil officers of the United States."

The writer concedes that Mr. Bayle, in his commentaries, is right when he says that a Senator "renders himself impeachable" in all cases except the two expressly mentioned in the Constitution, treason and "bribery."

The effect of this is to render the President, Vice President, and all civil officers of the United States, answerable for any crime or misdemeanor they may commit against the laws of any of the States. The criminal code of the United States is not only limited in the number of offences it includes, but with the exception of the offence against the revenue laws, is restricted to its territorial operation. Murder, forgery, larceny, rape, arson and that class of crimes, under ordinary circumstances, are limited territorial jurisdictions of the United States Courts, would not be impeachable offences.

We think it is clear that in England all the personal rights of the subject are protected, except for an indictable offence. We think that this is the settled and well determined law of that Kingdom. But as the impeachment known to the English law is wholly different from the impeachment provided for our Constitution, there is no analogy by which the English rule can be applied to American impeachment. It is a "whole law" in itself, and the reason of the law is the soul of the law, and that which is the reason of the law ceases to exist, the law also ceases to exist.

In England impeachment and indictment are two names for what is substantially the same proceeding. For certain offences the subject may refuse to be tried upon an indictment, in which case he can be impeached and tried by their peers. Whenever the Government is unwilling to try a man for treason or other crime by the forms of orthodox law, for instance, in Ireland, the Commons can impeach the party, and have him tried by the House of Lords. But an impeachment in England and Ireland is not less than a criminal indictment, and cannot be prosecuted unless the party impeached might have been indicted and tried before the courts of law. If the party be convicted, he can be sentenced exactly as the law would have required him to be sentenced by a court of law. The person impeached in England is tried for a crime, which is not a crime, but is made such because he is an officer, but because he has committed the crime. His conviction is on the trial upon an indictment in a court of law, in all other proceedings. In Impeachment, such as is provided for by our Constitution, is proceeding against the accused as an official culprit only, is unknown to the law of England. In England, the impeachment being like an indictment against the person, his attendance at trial is necessary, and the proceedings in the preceding being against him officially, his presence or absence makes no possible difference. In England, the accused, if holding office, is not suspended from the exercise of it, if moved, subsequently, it is by the act of the Crown. In England, the Crown may pardon a person convicted upon impeachment, the same as if he had been convicted upon an indictment. In England, the Crown may pardon a person convicted upon impeachment of treason or felony, but cannot pardon a person convicted upon an impeachment for treason or bribery, or not thereby rendered incapable in any legal office, or from being a member of Parliament, or from receiving any grant of honors, or from receiving any grant of public affairs, or from being a member of any political party. They are all hedging over with excitement and fiery words of one another. Every adjective in our copious vocabulary is hurled recklessly. There is perfect fire and rocket, as of bees, the past, dreams, rattlesticks and [illegible] crackers; and yet, in the study of our Canadian fire, we can make out little as to what all the fuss and row is about.

The only thing certain is that a general election for members of the Federal House of Commons and of the Provincial Legislature, is being held. The Conservatives turn on the Federal offices, and the mass of power in over them. The new Province of Ontario, formerly called Upper Canada or Canada West, elected half forty-eight two members to the Federal House of Commons. The Province of Quebec, formerly known as Lower Canada, returned twenty-two members. The Province of New Brunswick is to elect twenty members, and the Province of Nova Scotia, fifteen. The House of Commons, when fully organ[illegible] will consist of a total of one hundred and [illegible]

The Catholic clergy have thrown the great weight of their influence in behalf of the new system, as it is known in behalf of the Confederate party, who have a half millions of miles, or from 60,000,000 to 62,500,000, a correction of 1,000 less than three per cent.

It needs but a slight acquaintance with theoretical astronomy to perceive that the determination of this quantity is of vast importance to the world. It is well known that the earth's radius vector is in reality the measuring rod, which includes the unit in all calculations of absolute distances or magnitudes, and consequently, it is the rule of about two and

CHICAGO DRY GOODS MARKET.

TUESDAY EVENING, September 3, 1867.

The Dry Goods market shows a still more settled tone, with a firmer feeling in the full stocks are that we have noticed for some days past, and a better feeling in the trade at the end of the week previous. The attendance of buyers continued to be very light, but the sales have been more favorably contrasting the following prices:

Chicago Tribune.
WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1867.

THE CITY.

G. A. R.—Post 69 will meet this evening, in Goldsmith Hall, corner of Lake and Randolph streets, at eight o'clock.

Mass Meeting of Freedmen.—The negroes of the South Side will hold a mass meeting at the Bethel, on Dearborn street, this evening, at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of electing delegates to the Convention to be held in the Bethel on the 9th inst.

Amusements.—The Young Men's Christian Association, under the auspices of Mr. Moody, will give a lecture in Aldine Hall, on the subject of the Prodigal Son, this evening.

Shooting a Boy.—A boy named A. Hardman, residing in the West Division, was shot in the leg on Sunday afternoon, by a boy about 17 years of age, who followed him into his house and shot him. The child of a neighbor was shot through the leg at about the same time.

Grand Reunion.—The social gathering of this city will give a reunion at Aldine Hall, on Friday evening, Sept. 13, by invitation, to be given to the members of the Grand Lodge of Illinois, and their friends.

Fast Horses.—Six resolute gentlemen of this city will give a match race, for a purse, on the Chicago Jockey Club course, on Friday, Sept. 13, between Dan Mace's gray gelding Dan, and Mr. Ten Eyck's bay mare Jenny.

Steam Propeller.—A short human complaint among the sheaves of the tugs and lines, two days since, resulted in a collision, and much damage and other articles, including a saloon, were recovered by the Police authorities at a cost of $10. The parties have been notified to call at the Attorney.

Caught at Last.—Charles Hubbell, who has been wanted for some time past by the detectives for picking a lady's pocket on a street car, last night came to the surface of society at the corner of Dearborn and Randolph streets, where Officer Lynch found him and took him to the Central Station, to will be examined before Justice Morrison this morning.

Swamp Injury.—Michael McCarthy sold two sheep to a man named Hanson. They strayed back to the premises of McCarthy, and he sold them again to another party, upon whom Hanson called and recovered them. The man with whom McCarthy had dealt was arrested, and in McCarthy's presence, for the purpose of obtaining the money. Hanson was arrested by Officer Gray, of the Police Court, yesterday, and in default of bail was locked up.

Fatal Accident.—A boy named Charles Schall, nine years of age, died on Monday evening of injuries received by being struck by the beam of a passing locomotive, near Ashland avenue. The end several days spent in the city, and was playing with other small boys near the track, throwing stones from a pile which had been placed there for the purpose of ballasting the road, and was attempting to throw a stone from a car which was passing by, when he was struck by the beam, and fell under the wheels of the locomotive, and the train cut off the boy's left leg, and crushed the right, and he died in a few hours after. The remains were taken to his father's residence, on Ashland avenue.

Bridal—Revel—Morality.—Mr. Jacob Sauer, one of our citizens, a German, and a man whom we believe has been very profitably employed, he has now married his bride at his residence, in the town of Lake, Lake county, Illinois, and, in accordance with the custom of his native country, he invited his friends to participate in the festivities of the occasion. Yesterday was the day, and some of the company, including the bridal party, came to Chicago on the cars, and were arrested in a public place, and locked up for the crime of being drunk and disorderly. Mr. Sauer, the groom, paid the fine and costs, and the company left for home.

T. H. C. A.—Baptism.—An audience of perhaps two hundred persons gathered last evening in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, on Madison street, to witness the baptism of Miss Carrie E. Lathrop, of Boston, who was baptized by the Rev. Mr. Fleming, of the Tremont Street Church, Boston, who was in the city on a visit to his son, Mr. Fleming, who is the general secretary of the Association. The young lady received a very beautiful and appropriate address from Mr. Fleming, which we hope she will read.

Gunny Business.—The retail grocers of this city will give a supper, at Aldine Hall, on Friday evening, Sept. 13, by invitation, to the gentlemen of the wholesale grocery trade, to celebrate the completion of the Gunny Exchange, which will be opened for business on the following Monday, Sept. 16, at No. 42 Michigan avenue, in the building formerly occupied by the Chicago Post-Office.

Post Poison.—On receipt yesterday a box of mineral poison from E. F. Dunlap & Son, Cincinnati, addressed to Mr. Dunlap's agent in this city, for the purpose of killing rats, the box was found to contain a quantity of arsenic, which was turned over to the Attorney.

Caught at Last.—Charles Hubbell, who has been wanted for some time past by the detectives for picking a lady's pocket on a street car, last night came to the surface of society at the corner of Dearborn and Randolph streets, where Officer Lynch found him and took him to the Central Station, to will be examined before Justice Morrison this morning.

The remains were taken to his father's residence, on Ashland avenue.

To Boston Oratorio.—We would call attention of all our readers to the announcement of Woodmansee's new patent bridle bit, used for rising or driving single or double, and giving the most perfect control of the horse, and preventing the animal from jerk or contrivance now in use, doing away with the use of a curb, preventing the animal from bearing on the bit, and leaving the animal free and perfectly easy in the mouth. This bit is used by the best horsemen in the country, and we believe it is the best bit in use. The inventor will be seen by their advertisement, and will be seen by their advertisement, and will be seen by their advertisement, and
